Introduction: In this exercise, you will listen to نبيلة talk about some of her favorite foods. With that in mind, watch the video.

- I. What word does نبيلة first use to talk about foods she likes? Answer <inside link> She says أفضل. This literally means, “I like” or “I prefer.” </inside link>
- II. If you have not yet clicked on the links in the glossary to see the different foods نبيلة talks about, you should do so now. Have you had any of these foods?
- III. Listen to the video again to answer the following questions.
  - a. تاعمية mentions another word for تاعمية. Did you hear what it was? Answer <inside link> فلافل </inside link>
  - b. Where is the other term she mentions used? Answer <inside link> في الإسكندرية </inside link>
  - c. What does نبيلة mean when she says الأكلات تلك أعشق? Hint <inside link> From the context, you might be able to guess the meaning. What has she been talking about throughout the video? Her favorite foods. At the end, she summarizes her feelings about all the foods she mentioned. The word أعشق captures well how she feels—she loves those foods. </inside link>
- IV. Now that you have learned how to talk about favorite foods, seek opportunities to practice speaking. With a speaking partner, talk about foods you like or dislike. In addition, try to sample some of the foods that نبيلة has mentioned. Perhaps there is a restaurant or grocery near you that offers Middle Eastern dishes. If you can find these foods, and focus on what they are called in Arabic as you eat them, you will be unlikely to forget the dishes or their names.
